

OSPG

Office of the Superintendent of Professional Governance

Strategic Plan

Status as of November 21, 2019

BACKGROUND

The Professional Governance Act (PGA) and the Office of the Superintendent of Professional Governance (OSPG) were created in response to recommendations on professional governance provided in the independent final report on professional reliance in the natural resource sector completed by Mark Haddock in June 2018.

The PGA was passed in November 2018 and will initially govern five regulatory bodies: the Applied Science Technologists and Technicians of BC (ASTTBC), the Association of BC Forest Professionals (ABCFP), the BC Institute of Agrologists (BCIA), the College of Applied Biologists (CAB), and the Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of BC (also known as Engineers and Geoscientists BC - EGBC). The PGA is intended to strengthen government oversight of regulatory bodies by establishing a statutory oversight body (OSPG) within the Ministry of Attorney General, and by providing an effective and trusted framework for professional governance that protects the interests of British Columbians. The PGA is coming into force by regulation in stages beginning in June 2019 with the creation of the OSPG, the appointment of the Superintendent, and some initial requirements on regulatory bodies, such as nomination procedures for councils.

The enactment of key provisions begins the preparation of regulatory bodies to transition from their current governance statutes to the PGA, which is anticipated to be fully implemented in Fall 2020. During the implementation period, regulations and bylaws are being developed to support the full implementation of the PGA and will allow regulatory bodies to meet the specific needs of their professions. When the PGA is fully implemented, the current five governance statutes will be repealed.

Professional Governance Implementation Plan

- The Professional Governance Act (PGA) provides a governance framework and ethical principles for professionals in B.C. in order to protect the public interest.
- The Office of the Superintendent of Professional Governance (OSPG) administers and enforces the PGA and provides oversight of the regulatory bodies covered under the PGA.
- The PGA provides authority for key functions of regulatory bodies, including: setting standards of competence and conduct; registration; education and continuing competence, and; complaints and discipline.
- There are five regulatory bodies currently included in the PGA:
  1. College of Applied Biology
  2. Applied Science Technologists and Technicians of BC
  3. Engineers and Geoscientists BC
  4. Association of BC Forest Professionals
  5. BC Institute of Agrologists
